BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
THE ONLY CREATOR:—In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and Word was God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.—John 1:1-3.

THE CHARGE SERIOUS.

Senator Heflin, of Alabama, who has been a sensible and level-headed congressman, now a senator, charges that the federal reserve bank is in politics. This is a serious accusation and should be well probed for the benefit of the common people.

When the federal reserve board was organized, it functioned under the able direction of Woodrow Wilson, as an efficient and fair inter-sectional body. When eastern money markets were hard hit southern banks rushed money to the east. This was possible because of the universal demand for cotton that was holding prices up.

When the cotton dropped and the farmer was losing $10 a day on each bale he held the eastern bankers did not reciprocate. The southern farmer was forced to sell on a falling market. The price continued to fall under the selling movement and eastern money profited by its ability to buy with cheap money the staple crop of the south at a price fixed by speculators.

Senator Heflin who has pointed this out charges that the federal board is circulating matter, defamatory to every senator who opposes action of the board, among member banks with the veiled threat, "what do you think about this?"

A partisan senate has refused to probe this matter. Heflin is right. Money control is in the hands of five or six men on the federal reserve board. If they are playing politics the public should know it. Financial control of politics and money dictation of office holders should not pass unchallenged.—McAlester News-Capital.

The gathering of school board members Saturday afternoon proved that interest in education is very much alive in Pontotoc county. Although the roads were in the worst condition for months past no fewer than fifty school directors from almost every corner of the county were in attendance. In their discussions they made it very plain that they are earnestly striving to bring their schools to a higher standard and are willing to go the limit in providing means for the children to have the best educational advantages possible. Many of these men did not have even the advantages afforded the children of today and realize all the more keenly the need of helping to educate the present generation. This spirit speaks well for any country and as time passes Pontotoc county will be found in the front rank of educational progress. At all events judging from the ones in attendance Saturday the various districts are electing their school board members from among their most competent citizens.

The Durant Democrat states that 66,500 hogs have been shipped out of Bryan county since the first of the year. That takes the record, so far as we have heard. It means a lot of outside money turned loose where it will do most good. However, Pontotoc county is coming to the front in this line and will make others sit up and take notice one of these days in the near future. By way of a starter the Farmers Union Exchange has shipped thirteen cars since the first of the year and probably individuals have also shipped out some. By this time next year Bryan county will have to get a hustle on itself to keep up.

In trying to find excuse for the vacillating policy of the Harding administration Senator Watson attributes it to the stupendous task created by the blunders of the Wilson administration. He does not mention the fact that during Wilson's last two years the republicans had control of both houses of congress and did nothing even then. At one time it did look like they were going to knock off the tax on coke and ice cream, but even that failed and the party never got around to it until just a few months ago. If Wilson blundered it is certain that his successor has not made much headway correcting them.

Senator Watson of Indiana mentions the emergency tariff on farm products, passed for the ostensible purpose of helping the farmers, as an achievement of the Harding administration. He does not explain why farm products are lower now than they were when the measure was enacted. The fact is that with nation exporting instead of importing farm products a tariff cannot raise the price of American products, but in this case it was to raise votes for the g. o. p. that was aimed at.

The annual appropriation for free garden seed, amounting to $300,000, has been lopped off by the house appropriation committee. Well now, what will the poor congressmen do to keep themselves in the minds of the people if they deny themselves their supply of free seed.

If present rumblings are to be taken as an indication of what will break out in state politics later in the campaign, "it'll be a hot time in the old town" this summer.

The Forum of the Press

An "Honest-to-God Man."
(Kansas City Journal)

There is something traditionally breezy in the tribute paid to Judge Landis on the occasion of his retirement by the newspapermen who had been "covering" his court, many of them for years, some of them for only weeks or months. All united in presenting him with a signed memorial wishing him good luck, saying that he "was taking the life of the joint away," and that they would always remember him as "an honest-to-God man and a judge who had the right kind of backbone."

And there was something more than traditionally Landis-like, something strangely unjudicial and out of line with conventional court procedure but something tremendously human, in the judge's response, according to the news dispatches:

After reading it the judge swung his big chair around so the reporters could not see him and when he turned back five minutes later his cheeks and eyes glistened with tears. "Oh, hell," he said. "I can't thank you fellows. We've been too good pals, and I just can't seem to talk. But I hope that each one of you knows down in your heart how much I hate to leave this building and you—but no, I'm not leaving the fellows. We'll have our reunions and grow old together telling each other how we used to sit on the federal bench."

It isn't every jurist who could inspire and therefore deserve such a tribute, panegyrics that palpitated with emotion, eulogies bristling with sonorous periods, couldn't tell that kind of a story. Many a judge would give his ermine to receive such a reward. Through the story fairly blazes the fine, strong human glow that is vastly different from the stern, cold glare that falls upon the altar of inexorable law.

Not all jurists, wrapped in the frigid robes of office, are regarded by newspapermen, or any others, as "honest-to-God men," by which is which were neither spoken nor even the letter of the law, but who temper the law with something more than justice, something more than even mercy.

What that mysterious quality is cannot be put into words very easily. The words which come nearest to interpretation are those employed on the one hand by the Chicago federal building reporters and on the other in response of Judge Landis. And perhaps the words which are completely interpretative are those recitations and therefore it is little surmised, but were uttered in the clasp of hands and tears which honored instead of shaming manhood.

New League Wrecked at Start

(Muskogee Times-Democrat)
The Farmer Labor Reconstruction league split on the first lap of its political career. This was no more than was to be expected. The incongruity of union labor and an organization of farmers uniting for common welfare is so apparent that few persons expected such a combination could last any length of time. Union labor's program has always been for higher wages and shorter hours, which of course means that every manufactured article the farmer buys, every pound of freight he ships, will be high.

The farmers' program is to force the price of farm products, which means all food products, higher and the union labor man will have to pay twice the price. Their purposes lead in entirely opposite direction and therefore it is little surprise that the two elements split at the Shawnee convention, which was to launch a new party in politics. A state ticket was endorsed it is true, but nobody knows whether either branch of this hybrid organization will support it.

Admission of diversity of interests came when there was a row over endorsing John Whitehurst for reelection as chairman of the state board of agriculture. Edgar Fenton, president of the federation of labor, made a speech in which he proposed to let the farmers of the convention settle this for themselves saying that the state board of agriculture and its chairman was a matter in which the union labor element had no interest.

Then it was announced that the executive council of the farmers organization has refused to pledge the farmers to the combination ticket until a referendum had been taken by the 25,000 members of the farmers' league.

So it appears that this new party which adopted Mayor W. C. Walton, of Oklahoma City, as its candidate for governor, and followed with recommendation for a full state ticket, has no cohesive force. Everything indicates that the farmer-laborer combination has fallen on the first test. Nothing else could have been expected.

LEN SMALL GOES ON TRIAL MONDAY

The state treasury. The bill of particulars filed by the state claims the total profits in the alleged conspiracy are unknown because Gov. Small carried away a part of the records of the treasurer's office when his term expired and because part of the books of Swift and company "have not yet been found." The state charges the three defendants, with the late Senator Edward Curtis, brother and business partner of Vernon Curtis, kept $535,000 of state funds "for their personal and private property and the property of others unknown," in addition to the sums of interest retained.

Kept Two Sets of Books?
Gov. Small and Lieut-Gov. Sterling kept two sets of books while in office, the state says, one accounting for a so-called "vault fund" which was loaned to banks through out the state, and the other, known as the "safe fund" covering money placed in the Grant Park bank. During Mr. Small's term the bill of particulars alleges, the funds in the Grant Park Bank alone earned $24,066.28 in interest, while the total amount of interest, discounts and profits accounted for by Mr. Small from all funds in his charge was only $450,010.12. The earnings on the Grant Park transactions alone exceeded the total of all interest accounted for by the governor by $474,056.16, the bill alleges.

The battery of lawyers for both sides will be one of the largest ever assembled in the historic old Lake county court room. The state will be in charge of C. Fred Mortimer, state's attorney of Sangamon county, who obtained the indictments. He will be assisted by two assistant attorneys generals of Illinois, James M. Wilkerson and Thomas Marshall, the latter an expert on embezzlement cases; Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney of Lake county; Edward Pree, assistant state's attorney of Sangamon county; Ralph Dady, former state's attorney of Lake county; and half a dozen other lawyers.

The defense will be represented by C. C. LeForgee, of Decatur; Werner W. Schroeder, of Kankakee; and Alexander F. Beaubien, of Waukegan.

MISSING BUTLER IN CONNECTICUT PAPERS BELIEVE

(By the Associated Press)
HARTFORD, Conn., Mar. 6.—Edward F. Sands, missing secretary in the Taylor murder mystery, is believed by the Hartford Courant to have been in this city two weeks ago. The newspaper today said that its investigation indicated that a man who registered at a local hotel, giving his address as San Francisco, was the missing Sands.

The man who was at the hotel two weeks ago, the Courant says, is the same man who deserted from the naval base at New London during the war and who served in the navy under the name of Schneider. Superintendent Robert T. Hurley of the Connecticut state police, said last night he had received no answer to a telegram he had sent to the police of Los Angeles.

Full Terms for Ada Schools Is Problem For Board Meeting

Means of raising funds to continue the city schools after the money now on hand is exhausted are to be discussed tonight at a meeting of the school board. No plan has yet been announced but it is expected that some solution for the problem will be arrived at.

The city superintendent's office reports that money to run the schools during the last month of the term is not needed. Steps will be taken to raise this amount, which will be about $10,000. Ardmore, Shawnee, Oklahoma City and practically all other schools in the state have been in about the same shape financially this year, it is reported.

Stratford Cashier Surrenders After Bank Probe Starts

Allen Snoddy, cashier of the State Bank of Stratford, which closed its doors March 2, gave himself up Saturday night to Garvin county officers in connection with the failure of the institution, according to word which reached here today.

It was not known here whether he made any statement after his surrender.

C. H. Martin, bank examiner who has been investigating affairs of the defunct Stratford bank, spent the week-end away elsewhere, but returned to resume his work there this morning, it is understood. So far no definite announcement has been made as to whether the bank will take steps to reopen.

FREIGHT ON PETROLEUM IS ORDERED REDUCED

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Reduction in the freight rates on petroleum and petroleum products from the Burkburnett and Ranger fields of Texas to points in Mississippi valley and midcontinent areas was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission.

The commission adjusted rates from the two oil fields to refining points in Oklahoma and Kansas, decreeing that crude oil from Burkburnett should carry a rate of 17.5 cents per hundred to Oklahoma refineries and 20.5 to Kansas refineries. The rate from Ranger was set at 21.5 to Oklahoma and 24.5 to Kansas.

VANCOUVER VISITORS MAY STUDY ANTHROPOLOGY WHILE SIGHT-SEEING IN LOVELY STANLEY PARK

ENGLISH BAY, ONE OF STANLEY PARK BEACHES
AMONG THE GIANT CEDARS
ONE BIT OF A 14 MILE PICTURE THAT CIRCLES STANLEY PARK

Stanley Park's venerable cedars will soon shadow an Indian Village if the plans of the Art, Historical and Scientific Society of Vancouver are carried out. This beautiful natural park is enfolded in Indian legends and in its innermost recess are buried the ashes of the Indian poetess, Pauline Johnston, who gathered together these legends and made them into a little book.

The Indians of British Columbia are vanishing and it is hoped to perpetuate for future generations, their customs, houses and wares in the proposed village which will be really an exhibition. A communal lodge will be at the centre of attractions; four totem poles—splendid examples of that art—will stand as entrance posts before the lodge. It is planned to put Indians in charge of the exhibit that will contain dancing masks, talking sticks, muck-a-muck bowls, carved door jams and lintels, war canoes and medicine men's costly fur robes.

The Indian arts of weaving, spinning, basket-making, carving and painting as well as their industries of hunting, fishing, curing of skins and fish and the preparation of foods, will be represented. Careful research is under way to obtain a minute history of their secret writings which contain accounts of ancestral worship and tribal mysteries.

Tens of thousands of tourists visit Stanley Park every year and enjoy the magnificent views of water and mountain that are unrolled each mile of the excellent motor road that circles the peninsula. They enjoy the fine beaches and wander among the centuries-old giant cedars, all within walking distance of the center of Vancouver, that fascinating western Canadian metropolis and gateway to the Orient.

Civilization has robbed the Red-man of his primitive charm and glory. Today, the squaws—called "doochmen"—on the Pacific coast—work in fish canning plants. This clock-punching existence is a far cry from the days of the topee and trail; true, that was a life that held many hardships, but it was a life of romance too, as Stanley Park's Indian Village will reveal.

Funeral services for Philip Graham, who died Saturday morning at his home eight miles east of Ada, were held Saturday afternoon. Burial took place in Rosedale cemetery. He leaves a wife and four children.

Mrs. Nancy Rock, wife of G. R. Rock of 709 East Seventh street, died Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Funeral services were held at ten o'clock Monday and interment took place in Rosedale cemetery. The body was entombed in a steel vault. Services were held at the Church of Christ.

How a woman can spend practically her whole life striving with might and main to win for herself the love that has been foolishly given to another constitutes one of the finest romances and present-day dramas the screen has seen in many months. The title of this new photodrama is "What No Man Knows," and presents Clara Kimball Young in what the critics say to be the best acting of her long and brilliant screen career.

The question of who is the more unsexed, the man or the woman, is splendidly answered in this big new picture that boasts of one of the finest casts ever assembled. Little Jean Carpenter, child worker who won the hearts of millions in Mary Pickford's "Through the Back Door," is one of the cast that makes this a production of unusual significance.

KIDNAPPERS OF NEGRO PORTER NOT LOCATED

OKMULGEE, Mar. 6.—No clue has been discovered by the police regarding the identity of the band of unmasked men who kidnapped three negro hotel porters from Okmulgee hotels Sunday morning and took them to a house in the country where each was whipped, according to Chief of Police Dick Farr.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—An appropriation of $34,978,033 to meet expenses of the agriculture department the coming year is recommended in a bill reported today by the house appropriations committee. The total is $3,710,026 less than the amount appropriated for the current fiscal year and $1,554,835 less than the budget estimate.

ANOTHER ARDMORE MAN ADDS HIS TESTIMONY

Assistant Cashier, Oklahoma, New Mexico & Pacific R. R. at Ardmore, Joins Others in Giving Thanks to Puratone.

"Nearly all my life I have suffered from stomach trouble and the consequent ill," said Mr. Z. H. Le Van, who for the past two years has occupied the position of Assistant Cashier of the O. N. M. & P. R. R., at Ardmore, "and then one of my friends recommended Puratone."

"I was in a rundown condition and could hardly eat anything and, of course, lost much weight. After eating even the lightest kind of a meal I would bloat up with gas as tight as a drum and would be in such misery I would have to loosen my clothes. Gas would come up in my throat and cut off my breath, my heart would palpitate like a steam engine and the least effort would cause my breath to come in gasps. My food would seem to lump in the pit of my stomach and my stomach would burn me like fire. I was so nervous I could not bear the ticking of a clock or the rattling of a window.

"But worst of all was the rheumatism. I had it so bad I limped like a cripple, and all one winter I could not lie in bed but had to sit up in a chair with my foot propped up. Often my boy would have to help me get home. I lost thirty pounds and certainly was in misery."

"I took enough medicine to float a battleship but nothing I did helped me a bit until my friend recommended Puratone. After I had taken a half bottle I found it was helping me wonderfully. I am now on my second bottle and I cannot say too much for it. My rheumatism is nearly all gone, my appetite is ravenous and I have no stomach trouble of any kind. I have regained fifteen pounds and feel fine in every way. Puratone is the most wonderful medicine I ever saw and I would not be without it."

Puratone is sold in Ada by Gwin & Mays Drug Store; Allen, Gwin & Saffarans; Stonewall, C. L. Burnett; Stratford, Bayless Drug Co., and leading druggists everywhere. (adv)

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

John Harron and Marjorie Daw.

Rumors are flying everywhere to the effect that the pretty Marjorie

Daw and handsome Johnny Harron are engaged to be married. It seems they have said blithely that "there is nothing to it"; they are "merely good friends."

Their press agent, however, heeds not their denials, but sends out this charming picture of the "good friends" with the notice that a real romance was developed while making "Penrod," in which they both appear, and that the announcement of their forthcoming marriage has just been made.

Hartford Succeeds Taylor.
David M. Hartford has been named president of the Motion Picture Directors' Association, succeeding the late William Desmond Taylor, who held the post for two years.

All Wild!
The Sennett lot is rapidly assuming the proportions of a small-sized zoo. Housed within its confines are two bear cubs, a coyote, a wild bull from Mexico City, a half dozen fighting cocks, hundreds of Mexican mustangs, a dozen dogs and three timber wolves. Then, too, there are the bathing girls.

Gossipy Bits.
Jacqueline Logan was a newspaper woman before the "Follies" and then the films captured her. She is next to be seen in the R.C. production of Charles A. Logue's original story, "Gay and Devilish." "Skin Deep" featuring Milton Sills and Florence Vidor with an all-star cast, has been completed at the Thomas H. Ince studios. It was directed by John Griffith Wray and is considered by Mr. Ince the high-water mark of his output.

Bryant Washburn will return to the screen in Goldwyn's big special picture, "Hungry Hearts," which has a strong cast.

JOHN J. GRAY

"The best investment I ever made in my life was when I bought Tanlac. I have not only recovered my health but I have also gained twenty five pounds in weight and feel just brimful of new life and energy," said John J. Gray, 1330 Hollywood St., Philadelphia, Pa., a popular salesman at George's Clothing Store.

"When I began taking Tanlac I had been in failing health for some time as a result of stomach trouble and indigestion. I missed many meals rather than to suffer the discomfort I knew was to follow if I ate anything at all. I suffered especially from shortness of breath and dizzy spells and headaches added to my discomfort, and I was so nervous I got little rest either day or night."

"Since Tanlac toned up my stomach I am like a new man in every way and eat, sleep and feel better than in years."

FROM COLDFRAME TO YOUR GARDEN

Plants Should Be Accustomed to the Outside Conditions Before Setting.

PROTECTION MAY BE NEEDED

Boxes or Small Boards Will Save From Sun, Wind and Frost—Water Before Transplanting—Carry Containers to Place for Planting.

It is assumed that the wide-awake gardener has been busy long before the weather is warm enough to sow any seeds in the open ground; that a window box or hotbed has been provided, and that a supply of plants of tomatoes, peppers, early cabbage, and eggplant are under way to set in the garden as soon as danger of frost is past.

If plenty of south window space is available, the United States Department of Agriculture advises that such crops as snap beans, cucumbers, muskmelons, and even sweet corn may be started in flower pots, paper bands or berry boxes filled with good soil, and they will be of considerable size by the time the air is warm enough to plant them outdoors. Plants that grow in the house or in the hotbed must be hardened or adapted to outdoor conditions before they are set in the open ground. This is accomplished by gradually exposing them to the open air during the warmer part of the day and later at night, care being taken that they are not caught by a sudden cold snap.

Hardening Early Plants.
When the plants are grown in boxes or trays, the boxes may be carried into the open each day and the plants allowed to become gradually accustomed to the outdoor conditions. If they are in a hotbed or coldframe, the sash or other cover is lifted off during the day and replaced at night. Later the covering is left off entirely; however, it should be kept close at hand to be put on at any time that the weather should turn cold.

Plants set in the open ground may be protected from frost by turning small boxes over them and covering the boxes with a little earth. Old berry boxes are sometimes used for this purpose, but should be covered completely with soil, as the plants will freeze just as readily underneath the exposed boxes as if left in the open without any cover whatever. A good method of protecting plants is by setting a common roofing shingle or a small piece of board at an angle over each plant. These shingles can be set on the side to protect the plants from the sun during the daytime, or they may be placed on the opposite side in order to protect the plants from the wind and allow the sunshine to reach them.

In some cases gardeners have provided small frames, on the top of which are fitted single panes of glass, and one of these frames is set over each plant or hill to protect it. The glass should be so arranged that it can be partially removed during the warmer part of the day in order to prevent the temperature becoming too high inside the frame. These protectors give good results when used over hills of cucumbers, muskmelons and summer squashes, as well as over plants of sweet pepper, eggplant and tomatoes.

Points to Remember.
There are a few points in connection with the transplanting of house-grown plants to the garden that are worthy of special attention. In the first place, the plants to be transplanted should be watered a few hours before they are to be handled; this will cause the dirt to adhere to the roots and give them a better start when they are planted out. If the plants are grown in flower pots, in paper bands, or berry boxes, they should be carried to the garden in their containers. Pot-grown plants should be loosened by inverting them gently and knocking the edge of the pot on something solid. The plants then are set with the ball of earth adhering to their roots.

If the plants have been grown in paper bands or berry boxes, the sides of the bands or boxes should be slit with a knife and removed as the plants are set. Where the plants are grown in trays or in a hotbed, a knife should be run between the rows, cutting the earth in both directions, and each plant lifted with a cube of earth attached to its roots.

Use Fresh Furrows.
The holes or furrows in which the plants are set should not be made until ready to transplant the plants. If made too soon, the soil will dry out and cause the plants to wilt. Under all circumstances, it pays to apply a little water around the roots of each plant as it is set; this causes the soil to form a close contact with the roots of the plant. After the water has soaked into the soil, dry earth should be filled in around the plant and slightly firmed. Plants set in this manner will invariably start without wilting.

It is always a good idea to have a few more plants than are required for filling the space in the garden, in order to replace any that die or are destroyed by insects.

BOYS AND GIRLS' GARDENS

Youngsters Gain Valuable Knowledge From Tilling the Soil; Increase the Food Supply.

Junior gardeners and members of the boys and girls' clubs have been important factors in increasing America's food supply. In many cities this work has been joined with the school-garden movement. This kind of work not only produces more food but teaches the youngsters self-dependence and the value of work.

Teachers have reported that the effort with the boys and girls has been more than repaid by the knowledge of Nature gained by the pupils. Both the bureau of education, through the schools, and the United States Department of Agriculture, through the boys and girls' clubs, are giving official help to the junior garden movement.

SUNFLOWERS AND SHRUBBERY

Sunflowers have not received the attention they deserve. The tall-growing, large-flowered sorts, as well as the dwarf many-flowered varieties, are useful when skillfully employed in mixed plantations with other herbaceous annuals. The golden yellow disks are like sunbursts among the shrubbery. The tall habit and dense foliage of some varieties make them suitable for backgrounds and screens. Because of their long stems and extraordinary lasting qualities they are of value as cut flowers.

PLANTS REQUIRE MOISTURE

Plants take in moisture through their small feeding rootlets and discharge it through the surface of their leaves. As a result of the breaking of the roots in transplanting, the supply of moisture is cut off and the plants wilt. To prevent the wilting of the leaves, says the United States Department of Agriculture, water should be poured around the roots before the dirt is filled in; also the tops of the plants should be shaded and protected from the wind for a day or two to reduce the evaporation from the leaves.

EMPLOYING IDLE MEN UNDERTAKEN

Legion Sets Out to Furnish Jobs for 700,000 Former Service Veterans.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 4.—Employment of 700,000 veterans of the world war who are now idle and in need will be undertaken in a great joint national effort already initiated by the American Legion in co-operation with an impressive list of national business, civic, fraternal and welfare organizations, according to an announcement today at the national headquarters of the Legion. Preliminary preparations for the campaign have been started under the direction of local units of the legion and co-operating bodies. This includes a survey of conditions and suggestions for remedy in every locality. This work will be completed before March 20, which shall be known as American Legion Employment Day.

Hanford MacNider, national commander of the Legion has appealed to the president, state commanders have requested their governors, and local leaders have asked mayors of cities and towns to set aside that day to launch by concerted effort in every community in the nation this joint drive to give work to and relieve need among the unemployed who served their country in war. On March 20 it is planned to hold meetings under the auspices of the joint local committees in every city and town in the United States, at which the business men and employers and representatives of every element in the community life will be confronted by a survey of situation in their town with suggestions for relief which fit the local conditions.

"Properly supported this concerted localized national effort will result in the relief of 500,000 men in thirty days," declared Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the legion, who supervised the organization of the effort. "We are dealing with methods which have been proven. The legion has long been interested in the unemployed situation. Through our own bureaus we have placed several hundred thousand men in jobs within the past six months. A recent concerted effort in St. Paul resulted in putting every deserving veteran to work in that city. The Louisiana department of the legion reports not a resident unemployed in the state."

Mr. Bolles announced that national heads of the following organizations had been urged to co-operate with the legion: American legion auxiliary, United States chamber of commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. community service, Knights of Columbus, Elks and Jewish welfare board. Pastors of all churches will be asked to mention the movement in their sermons on Sunday, March 19th.

Legion officials assert the unemployment situation among veterans has never been worse since the end of the war.

Eight Men Arrested When Alleged Game Is Stopped By Raid

For the first time since early in January the city and county officers made a "pot shot" arrest Sunday of alleged gamblers, according to statements of night men to the mayor this morning. Eight men were arrested last night on a charge of gambling, and on their pleas of guilty were fined $10.75 each.

Outside of charges of being drunk and fighting, the city docket has had no variety during February. Elliot Meaders, a porter at the Harris Hotel, and a negro named Click were arrested by officers on a charge of fighting. They were fined $10.75 each.

THE MERRY JOURNEYS OF MARY JANE

Gussie, the Big Fat Goose, Gives Mary Jane Some Advice

"I'm going to teach you how to make delicious fudge some day", Mary Jane says to Gussie.

ONE day Mary Jane was walking where Gussie Guppy—the old white goose—was showing eight or ten of her youngest children the best places to look for worms.

Gussie was very busy, but said "Good morning, Mary Jane. You ought to be mighty glad you don't have a big family like I have, to provide for."

"Only yesterday little Launcelot was chasing a frog, and he fell into a ditch. I had the awfullest time getting him out. And when I did, he was mud up to his ears. It took me all of half an hour to get him cleaned off again."

Mary Jane said she knew just how ag-gra-va-ting that must have been. For her mama had the same sort of a job with her brother Bobby. Bobby was crossing the brook, and he slipped off the stepping stones and fell in the mud. They had to turn the hose on him, before they could find the buttons to unbutton his clothes.

And then Mary Jane told Gussie Guppy they had a party up at her house last night with the most wonderful Mary Jane Fudge you ever tasted—made with Mary Jane Syrup.

"It's the easiest thing you ever saw to make the most delicious fudge out of 'Mary Jane Syrup' said Mary Jane, 'I'll teach you how to do it sometime, and we'll give a party for Launcelot and the children.' And Gussie said 'don't forget.' And then she went home and put her children to bed.

COAL STRIKE IN OKLAHOMA WOULD NOT BE SERIOUS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 4.—A national coal strike, such as is proposed by the United Mine Workers of America on April 1, would be only about 15 percent effective in this state, according to a statement of Claude E. Connally, state labor commissioner. Mr. Connally said that approximately this much of the normal mining of the state is being carried on at this time, the idleness of the majority of the workers being caused by the poor coal market.

The coal strike, however little its effects present conditions, will nevertheless involve ten counties having 131 mines, according to figures and statements in the 1922 Coal Field directory. There are approximately 7,500 miners in the state, according to Commissioner Connally, and practically all are members of the union and would be expected to strike if the call is issued.

According to the directory, Pittsburg county has the largest number of mines, 39 being listed. Oklahoma county is second with 32. Other counties in the order of their mining importance are: LeFlore, 29; Latimer, 15; Coal, 10; Tulsa, 7; Haskell, 2; Craig, 2; Rogers, 2; Muskogee, 1.

According to Mr. Connally, there is but one mine in the state operating on a non-union basis. This is located in Pittsburg county. Two hundred and fifty men are normally employed in its two shafts, he said.

CANADA TO HAVE A LIBERAL HEAD

New Prime Minister First of His Kind Since 1911;
Goes in Wednesday.

(By the Associated Press)
OTTAWA, Mar. 6.—For the first time since 1911, a Liberal prime minister will hold the reins of government when the 14th Parliament of Canada is opened by the Governor General Byng next Wednesday.

W. L. Mackenzie King, the new minister, is the first of his party to hold that office since Sir Wilfrid Laurier was defeated more than ten years ago on his policy of reciprocity with the United States.

While lacking much of the pomp and circumstance that mark similar events in Great Britain, the convening of the Canadian Parliament is accompanied by observance of many traditions. A few relics of medieval pageantry, borrowed from the "mother of parliaments" at Westminster, have been retained and probably will continue.

With Much Display.
The Governor General, in full dress military uniform, drives to the House of Parliament in the state carriage, attended by a guard of honor, mounted and afoot. He enters the Senate chamber and occupies the Speaker's chair.

Then a functionary known as the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, clad in silk knee breeches, silken hose, buckled shoes, tailed coat adorned with rosettes and a cocked hat, proceeds to the Commons chamber, where the members of Parliament are waiting patiently and gives three resounding raps on the door.

The sergeant-at-arms of the Commons, who is also attired after the style of Cromwell's day goes to door and investigates the rapping. He returns to announce to the Speaker of the Commons the arrival of the messenger from the Senate. The Speaker orders that the messenger be admitted. In comes the Gentleman Usher who, after making three low bows to the Speaker, announces that the Governor-General demands the presence of the Commons in the Senate chamber. Three more bows and the Gentleman Usher takes his leave.

After him comes the sergeant-at-arms with the great mace of the Commons at the side of his shoulder. Behind the sergeant-at-arms marches the Speaker of the Commons, in gown and cocked hat. Behind troop the members of Parliament. As many as can squeeze themselves into the Senate chamber do so and the Governor General reads the speech from the throne. Then Parliament is open for business.

The first task is election of a speaker, who always is a member of the dominant party.

For this office Premier King has selected Rodolphe Lemieux, of Montreal, a parliamentarian of 26 years experience. He served as postmaster general in the Laurier government prior to 1911.

Election of the speaker by the members is the merest formality after he has been chosen by the Premier.

The government commands about one-half of the members of Parliament. The official opposition group, numbering about 50 in a House of 235 members, is led by Arthur Meighen, the defeated premier, who is paid a salary as opposition chief.

An unofficial progressive group of 60 odd members, is commanded by T. A. Crerar. This group is expected to support the government on most of its policies, but mainly on the tariff, liberals and progressives uniting in their belief in customs duties "for revenue only," as against the conservative program of protection.

Premier King, himself a veteran of the Laurier ministry of 1911, in which he served as minister of labor, has surrounded himself with seasoned advisers many of whom had cabinet experience under Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Five of the King ministry were in the administration that went down to defeat in 1911 on the reciprocity pact with the United States.

For most there is W. S. Fielding, of Nova Scotia, who negotiated the reciprocity agreement with the Taft administration. The others are: Charles Murphy, of Ontario; George P. Graham, of Ontario; Henri S. Beland, of Quebec, and Jacques Bureau, of Quebec.

UP TO YOU AND CONGRESS

At the present time it would be a misnomer to speak of the national government having a personnel system at all. The reform accomplished by the establishment of the civil service commission and the merit system has touched but one phase of the personnel problem, and that but partially—entrance into the government service. Practically nothing has been done in the way of erecting the government services into careers that will attract and retain efficient men. Bad as conditions were in this respect before the war, they have become many times worse during and since that event.

The correction of these evils presents a problem of great complexity. It cannot be achieved by a half-hearted or half-way tinkering with the present system. Nothing but a thorough overhauling of the whole personnel system and the establishment of a new system covering all phases of the question and embodying the most approved principles of personnel administration will meet the needs of the situation. Fortunately a beginning has been made in this direction. It at least furnishes a starting point for action looking to the giving to the government of the personnel system that it must have if government work is to be even measurably well done.

The situation now is that there is an insistent demand on the part of the public that the whole administration of the national government be put upon a more efficient basis, and that the present waste of public funds, resulting from present defective organization and methods, shall cease; that congress is alive to this demand and has made a start toward meeting it; that the fundamental defects in the existing system are well known; and that the direction efforts looking to reform should take are clearly established. The responsibility is thus squarely up to congress.

If the problem that confronts congress in securing this laudable end is analyzed it will be found that the fundamental reforms are: The reform by congress itself of its own organization and methods of procedure; the entire revision of the present system under which the financial needs of the government are determined and provided; the setting up of an agency and procedure through which the expenditure of public funds may be properly controlled and congress be given that information regarding such expenditures which it must have if it is to assure itself that its agents, the administrative services, are properly performing their duties, and to act intelligently in respect to the future grant of funds; the provision of an organ through which the President may in fact, as well as in name, discharge his duties as head of the administration; the reorganization of the administrative branch of the government so as to eliminate the present widespread overlapping of jurisdictions and functions and indefensible duplication of services, organization, plant and work; and the complete recasting of the present system under which the personnel required to man the governmental plant is secured, compensated, promoted, assigned to particular tasks and controlled, to the end that not only justice will be done to the several classes of governmental employees, but that a personnel system will be established that will insure a maximum of efficiency in the actual conduct of public affairs.

A study of action actually had or now under way shows that steps have been taken toward the accomplishment of each of these fundamental reforms. The introduction of a budget system is a long step forward.

I don't mean in the least to give the impression that all private business is perfectly run and that only government business is badly managed, or that all the efficient people are in private employ and only inefficient in the public service. Neither of those conditions exists.

In the common phrase, you have got to hand it to Alexander Hamilton for devising a scheme that has stood up since revolutionary days. It has not been fundamentally altered since his day. There has been no readjustment of salaries in the departmental service for sixty years. That implies a certain loyalty and faithfulness on the part of the workers.

My only desire is to disclose the present condition of government employment; that good men are leaving, and that the present tendency, if not checked, will inevitably drive out of the service all of the efficient and leave only the mediocre and incompetent. I have said little myself, but have chosen to let the men working for the government tell the story. Every assertion of fact in these articles comes from some responsible source or authority within the service. I am not making a criticism or attack from the outside, but merely serving as a mouthpiece for your hired men.

SUPERSTITION WAS DOWN FALL OF CHIEF GERONIMO

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 6.—Superstition resulted in the surrender of Geronimo, the famous Indian, and the Apache Kid used the first smoke screen recorded in this country, according to Col. Fred Owens of Chicago, a noted Texas ranger of half a century ago.

Col. Owens, an old circus man, who earned his title as ranger, cowboy, broncho buster, pony express rider and participant in many wild pursuits, including those of Geronimo and the Kid, made these assertions here in a recital of his life, which has been crammed full of action and narrow escapes that read like the passages from an old dime novel.

Fred Owens when nine years old was missing from his home in Flemingsburg, Kentucky, one morning in 1859. He had gone west. At eighteen, or in 1868, he became a Texas ranger and made such a mark for himself that he was sent to the Centennial at Philadelphia with other rangers to represent the Lone Star state. In 1878-79-80 he was detailed to the pony express through No Man's Land, or the Indian Territory. He was never held up but many times outrode bandits bent on possessing the valuables he carried.

He Becomes Ranger

In 1881 he took the saddle again as an active ranger. About that time Geronimo, the most widely known of the American army trouble, was getting bad in West Texas. Until Geronimo's capture in the hills back of Chihuahua, Mexico, Colonel Owens was a material part of his pursuit. And he tells a story of the Indian's capture that may not be part of the records of the War Department because Geronimo had few friends among white men. The colonel was one of these few.

In after years Geronimo told him why he surrendered to the white man, and it is a story of the Indian's superstitious nature. Geronimo's pursuers numbered among them a Captain Hildebrand. When the Indian was driven into the hills and the chase became hot, Hildebrand's command was crawling over the crags towards the redskin's stronghold. Just before his surrender Geronimo caught sight of the face of Capt. Hildebrand and was ready to fire. Then a bright light flashed over the officer's features. This the Indian could not fathom, and it drove all the fight out of him.

In those days troopers in the army were resourceful men. A private in the advancing line had seen a point of vantage and thought his captain should know of it. To move or to call would reveal his position to the Indians. Yet he must get the attention of Captain Hildebrand. Taking a small mirror from his pocket he caught the rays of the sun. These reflected on the face of Hildebrand, then in imminent danger of Geronimo's rifle. But the flash beat the Indian's trigger finger. He saw the wonderful, bright light and thought it a message from Heaven to identify Captain Hildebrand as the Great Spirit. Geronimo ran up his flag of truce, merely stipulating that he should not be hung or shot for his outrages if he surrendered. His terms were accepted.

Apache Kid Raids
In 1884 the Apache Kid, a half-breed outlaw, and his band were marauding in West Texas. The Apache Kid was of the same tribe, but not related to Geronimo. Yet he possessed all the wiles and savage cruelty of his chieftain. Colonel Owens and his fellow rangers were sent after the Apache Kid.

The chase was a hot one. The Apache Kid knew horses and from time to time got remounts on the fastest and freshest horses in the corral he passed. The rangers plugged along on their same ponies. But they followed the trail so fast that they drove the Apache Kid and his band to a field of fewer corals and more desperate straits.

They surrendered the band at Stinking Wells, so called from the Sulphur fumes that rise from its pit. As the law circle closed in, the Apache Kid made use of a smoke screen. The wind was blowing from his hand toward the rangers. The Indian fired the prairie. Then under cover of the smoke they brought down some of the rangers.

Colonel Owens did not escape. Two of the Wolff boys with whom he had lived when he first came to Texas fell in the rifle fire. Colonel Owens dragged them through it and returned to his horse. Then he rode into a bullet that caught him in the left thigh and another killed his horse, which fell on the colonel, crushed his chest, and left him unconscious. When he came to himself he was seven miles nearer civilization.

tion, being carried on the back of a friendly squaw. The Wolff boys were saved.

Recuperating, he again took up the chase and helped to make it merry for the Apache Kid until that outlaw was run to cover in Big Bear Canyon on the Pecos river and died from a ranger's bullet.

Body Guided Horses

He then broke eighteen horses to work without line, bridle or bit, and their performance was presented the first time with the original Buffalo Bill show in Omaha in 1884. In 1885 Colonel Owens went back to Texas. He added to his string of "naked racers" as they were called, and presented them for two seasons with the Barnum and Bailey circus. Then he sold them to that company.

He returned to Texas and took up the trail of Bass Scott and his band of cattle rustlers. This crowd was exterminated 100 miles from Fort Stockton, but before their end Colonel Owens had received a terrible wound that crushed in his left side.

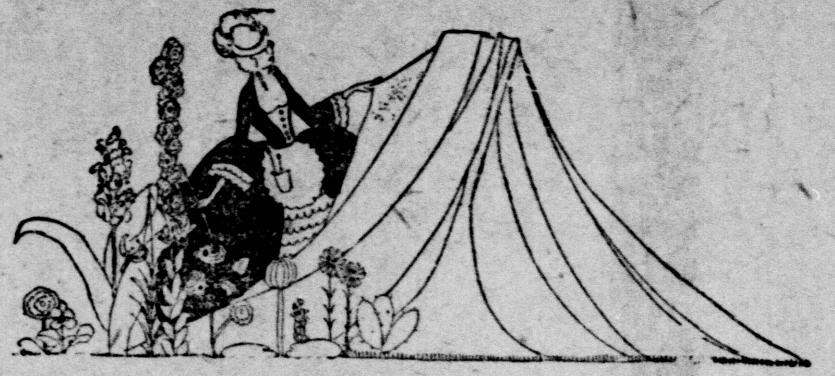

This laid him up for some time but he went on the last "big drive" of cattle from Texas. There were five thousand head in the herd. In Stevens' Sauter, Texas, so called because the hills form a giant saucer, a coyote barked and a cowboy fired a shot over him. When the stampede was over one thousand head of cattle were dead and 2500 were lost.

Returning to civilization, Colonel Owens heard of a midget broncho pony born on the trail. He bought this little animal, which was the great trick pony "Cleo." He trained "Cleo" and the animal was taken around the world twice by Colonel Owens. Cleo died in 1918. Colonel Owens then left the road.

What is thought of him by showmen is evidenced by his initial, and since, automatic elections, as champion of their club. He can still take the thumb, fore and middle fingers of his pistol hand, roll and crimp a cigarette the cowboy's way, in spite of the fact that those three fingers are marred by the mark of a bullet that shot the gun out of his hand.

Colonel Owens is still a Texas Ranger. He has never resigned, he has never been discharged. He is a man of quiet, plain and to meet him one would never realize he was one of the valiant men that carried law and order to and over the frontiers.

NOW WE HAVE HOME-MADE LIGHTNING

Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz inspecting fragments of tree branch shattered by his home-made lightning.

Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, chief consulting engineer of the General Electric Co., has perfected at Schenectady, N. Y., a lightning generator which stores up electric energy similar to a thunder cloud in the sky. When a certain overcharged point is reached—in this case 120,000 volts—the generator flashes like lightning does in a storm. Real lightning is estimated at a voltage of fifty million volts. The energy in Dr. Steinmetz's home-made lightning is one million horsepower; that of natural lightning 500,000,000 horsepower.

WORLD GETTING BETTER, COP OF 30 YEARS SAYS

(By the Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Mar. 6.—Captain Robert E. Lee James, in active charge of the second largest police district here, has been a policeman for thirty years, and believes the world is growing better and that crime and vice are on the wane.

"I have known a great many crooks," he says, "and served under one or two when they happened to be police commissioners. But the world isn't made up of crooks. I have made it a rule for many years to help a man whenever I can rather than strive to get him into a court room. I like to think I have helped some boys go straight who were on the way toward becoming crooks. I was never prouder than when a judge, in introducing me to a public gathering, said I had kept more men out of this court than I had sent in there."

Captain James has made a study of sociology, belongs to many organizations whose object is civel betterment, and knows the effects of vice and loose living upon the "innocent bystanders" women and children.

"I walked a beat for thirteen years," he said recently. "I had never heard of sociology in those days. But I did learn to know people. It took me a while to realize that the reason there are laws and policemen to enforce them is because society—people everywhere—have to protect themselves not only from the immediate acts of criminals but from the far-reaching after effects of crime and vice upon the community. The enforcing laws and stamping out bad conditions, we are trying to make our cities better places for our children to grow up in.

"I am a policeman for two reasons. One—and probably the principal one—is to make a living for myself and my family. The other is that I believe I am helping in a modest way to make the world a better place to live in."

BOY HIT BY BASEBALL HAS PECULIAR DEATH

(By the Associated Press)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Mar. 6.—Hit in the eye by a baseball six months ago, Thomas Wintz, 14, died yesterday at a hospital here after four doctors had confessed themselves mystified by the cause of the death. For several weeks after the accident the boy was not troubled. Then the mysterious malady in his brain developed and spread over his entire body. Doctors traced it to the eye injury but could not tell what it was or how it had developed. An autopsy will be made today by the four physicians.
